INTRODUCTION

SOCIETY has passed through several stages: first, the Savage; next, the Nomadic; third, the Agricultural; fourth, the Commercial or Competitive; and now, we are entering the suburbs of the Co-operative.

The dream of comradeship, work, play and high endeavor, rightly fused, has been the hope of many philosophers.

Pythagoras had his community of kindred souls, who combined work and study six hundred years before Christ.

Plato had his Garden School.

Hypatia was one of a select company that worked, studied, struggled, and died martyrs in an endeavor to attain the ideal.

Spinoza, all during his later life, paid tribute to the Mennonites who gave him sanctuary, and the friendship and encouragement without which he would have perished and his fame been as one whose name is writ in water.

Charles Fourier carried co-operation to a successful conclusion—on paper. Fourierism got itself fixed in the common human heart.

Robert Owen, in England, through an intense and loving leadership, made co-operation practical, and in his school John Tyndall the scientist evolved.

Brook Farm traces an intellectual pedigree to Charles Fourier. Brook Farm was a rotting log that nourished a bank of violets. All the United States is debtor to the high ideals that there prevailed.

William Morris, the Rossettis, and that fine company of fine minds which we call the Pre-Raphaelites clung for fifty years to one idea, the idea of successful communism.

It has been said that you can not look out of a window in any civilized town or city in Christendom without seeing the influence of Thomas A. Edison. Also, it can be truthfully said that you can not enter a well-furnished house in Europe or America without noting the influence of William Morris, master craftsman—dead and gone, but whose spirit abides.

William Morris is the man who did away with nailed-down carpets, who gave us hardwood floors, and the doily instead of the tablecloth, which covered a multitude of artistic sins. Simplicity, truth, health, comradeship, work, were his watchwords.

Harmonies in tones and tints in all household decorations trace a lineage to John Ruskin, William Morris and the Pre-Raphaelites.

Had it not been for William Morris, there would have been no Roycroft Shop. We build upon the past, and all the days that have gone before have made this time and this place possible.

There is an apostolic succession in art as well as in religion. Whether The Roycrofters have improved on the work and ideas of William Morris and John Ruskin is not the question. In any event, this institution has succeeded, in degree, since its founding twenty years ago. Gradually, slowly, surely, it has grown.

The Roycrofters own and utilize upwards of five hundred acres of land.

They have a printing-shop, a blacksmith-shop, a furniture-shop; they bind books, make ornamental objects in metal and leather.

And all the Roycroft Shops are practically schoolhouses. The Roycrofters operate an Inn and a Bank. They have a model dairy, raise several thousand head of poultry every year, and all the produce that they require at their Inn and in their homes is produced on the Roycroft Farms. Further, they worship at the shrine of the Goddess Hygeia, and know the fine art of keeping well.

Many people from all over the world come to this place. Visitors are always welcome.

Needless to say, The Roycrofters are just plain folks, farmers with an artistic bias.

The best work can be done only under certain conditions and in a certain environment.

An artist must have what you call "atmosphere." In degree, The Roycrofters have produced an atmosphere in which souls can grow. They have supplied opportunity. The quality of any people is tokened by the products of their hands and brain.

In the following pages are listed some of the choice, peculiar and unique things manufactured by The Roycrofters.

PIG-PEN PETE or SOME CHUMS of MINE

A New Book by Elbert Hubbard

Price, $2.00

Mr. Hubbard has written many books, but none that has given him the same amount of concrete satisfaction that this volume has. It is a book of animal stories—twenty-three merry tales in all, of dogs, cats, chickens, guineas, horses, mules, cows, calves, birds, rabbits and lobsters.

The stories are all more or less humorous, but in them is a vein of earnest appeal for gentleness, kindness and consideration toward our dumb brothers.

It is a book for children and grown-ups. It is sure to appeal to any one who loves the great open, and whose heart goes out to all the living things.

The volume is beautifully printed on "Strathmore," and is a book of which the art-collector will be proud.

LITTLE JOURNEYS by ELBERT HUBBARD

Six Volumes of the Full Set of Little Journeys
Miriam Binding, Half India Goat. Embossed back and sides.

Boswell made one man live for all time, and this has made him known to us who otherwise would have been simply Goldsmith's "Scotch burr."

Elbert Hubbard has taken out of the past and given to the living present the lives of one hundred seventy men and women who have transformed the living thought of the world. Through him, their words and deeds will echo down the centuries. His Little Journeys to their haunts, and his knowledge of their hearts, have made these brief biographies the Miniatures of Literature.

Mr. Hubbard began writing Little Journeys in Eighteen Hundred Ninety-four, and every month for fifteen years a new life was thrown upon the screen of Time.

There has been a slow, steady and sure increase in the demand for these Little Journeys, until they are accepted as classics, save by the non-cogibund. They are used in many high schools and colleges; and every public library in the world, of any importance whatsoever, now has these books on its shelves. We have recently printed a full set of the Little Journeys, and have gathered them into twenty-eight volumes.

They are printed on handmade paper, and illustrated with nearly two hundred portraits from drawings made for this edition by Gaspard and Schneider, with photogravure frontispiece in each volume printed by hand on Vellum.

Little Journeys sell at the uniform price of Two Dollars a volume, or Fifty-six Dollars for the complete set of twenty-eight volumes. Your orders are solicited.

AN AMERICAN BIBLE

Price, $10.00

An American Bible stands for the hands that work, the brains that think, the hearts that love.

No five-foot shelf of books is required to make an educated person—this one book of five hundred pages, well read, will differentiate a man from the mass, a person from the mob.

The Authors represented in this book are:

Benjamin Franklin, Printer	Robert G. Ingersoll, Lawyer and Orator
Thomas Jefferson, Statesman	Walt Whitman, Hospital Nurse and Poet
Thomas Paine, Weaver and Writer	Ralph Waldo Emerson, Teacher and Writer
Abraham Lincoln, Lawyer and Humanitarian	Elbert Hubbard, Businessman and Farmer

This American Bible mirrors love, faith, work, laughter, study and play, and will teach the scientific fact that death is a form of life and, for all we know, just as good. It extends the firm faith that the Power that cares for us here will never desert us there.

This book will make men think; it will give them strength to decide; and it will inspire wisdom to act.

It deals with the practical problems that confront us now.

We believe that this American Bible, a book of five hundred pages, is the most important book ever printed in America.

We have made a small special Christmas edition of An American

Bible, printed on American paper, in two colors, by American printers, bound in semi-flexible, antique leather bindings . . . $ 2.00

ROYCROFT RE-BINDERY

¶ This is to let the world know that we do a few things with our left hand which our right hand knoweth not ; and being ambidextrous there is no jealousy between the members.

¶ We have always protected the beautiful things which we make with the best covering we could devise ; but once a friend came along who had a choice old tome which we did n't make ; he left it with us, we gave it our care, the result was a perfect book—and a happy owner.

¶ The pilgrims kept coming and a Department evolved.

¶ So now there is a book-hospital—the only hospital we believe in, for here we can readily give new cords and sinews, bands and backs ; in fact, no bit of tissue is so delicate that we can't build it up.

¶ Remember that our work is Art—Art that is long and your time is fleeting.

THE FRA MAGAZINE

A Periodical of Progress

ELBERT HUBBARD, EDITOR

Issued once every month by The Roycrofters, at their shops, in East Aurora, Erie County, New York.

THE FRA stands for health, business, art, education and religion—the religion of fraternity.

THE FRA probably has a subscription-list that represents more brains and money than are to be found in any other one list in the world.

THE FRA Magazine is an exponent of The American Philosophy; it is the journal of the thinkers, the doers, the creators.

THE FRA stands for the divinity of business—for good health, happiness, reciprocity, mutuality and co-operation. It believes in the hands that work, the brains that think, and the hearts that love.

THE FRA Magazine for one year for Two Dollars.

As a premium, we will send you Pig-Pen Pete, Elbert Hubbard's latest book.

THE ROYCROFT INN

Reception-Room

THE ROYCROFT INN was built, furnished and is run by The Roycrofters — an Art Colony.

The Roycrofters own and utilize upwards of five hundred acres of land. They have a print-shop, a blacksmith-shop, a furniture-shop. They bind books, make ornamental objects in leather and copper. They publish two magazines and write most of the copy in them.

The Roycrofters operate an Inn, a Bank, a Brass Band, a Baseball-Club.

They have a dairy, raise several thousand head of poultry every year for use at the Inn, and all the produce that is required for the Inn is produced at The Roycroft Farms. They worship at the shrine of the Goddess Hygeia, and know the fine art of keeping well.

OPEN THROUGHOUT THE YEAR

Dining-Room

Many people from all over the world come to visit this place. Visitors are always welcome.

Saturday evenings there is a concert in the Salon. Sunday evenings Mr. Hubbard speaks there.

The Roycroft Inn is a modern hotel — unique and different.

American Plan, $2.50 to $5.00 a day. Single rooms, connecting rooms, out-of-door sleeping-rooms, suites with bath—an abundance of hot water.

Milk, cream, butter, eggs, fruits and vegetables, fresh from the Roycroft Farms, are served in a most beautiful and restful dining-room.
